FROM ICBA

SBA issues instructions on "loan necessity" questionnaires

The SBA issued to lenders a letter and instructions on the agency's "loan necessity" questionnaire for Paycheck Protection Program loans of $2 million or more.

The instruction guide details how lenders receive notice of a questionnaire, what to do after being notified, what to do with borrower responses, and how to submit the questionnaires. The SBA letter says requests to complete the questionnaire do not mean the SBA is challenging a borrower's certification. Lenders are required to upload the completed form and supporting documents via the SBA's lender platform and to separately input borrower responses to each question, though they aren't required to re-enter narrative comments from the questionnaire. Further, lenders are not required to verify or validate borrower responses, though they should confirm that all required responses, supporting documents, signatures, and certifications have been received. ICBA has raised questions about the questionnaire among policymakers. In a recent ICBA letter to congressional leaders and separate joint letters to lawmakers and agency heads, ICBA called on the SBA to suspend the questionnaires while the agency addresses lender and borrower concerns. The letters note that the questionnaire has led many borrowers to justifiably fear that the SBA is altering PPP loan eligibility criteria after funds have already been disbursed.

ICBA calling for lame-duck grassroots

ICBA is calling on community bankers to urge Congress to pass much-needed economic stimulus measures during the lame-duck session. In a recent Main Street Matters post, ICBA's Paul Merski said ICBA's efforts to pass Paycheck Protection Program and Economic Injury Disaster Loan Advance reforms continue unabated. Community bankers can use ICBA's Be Heard grassroots action center to send a customizable message to their lawmakers.

ICBA guide details EIDL lien requirements

ICBA is reminding community bankers about the procedures for renewing or refinancing a line of credit for a borrower with an Economic Injury Disaster Loan. As detailed in ICBA's guide on SBA lien requirements, EIDL loans over $25,000 require a blanket Universal Commercial Code lien allowing the SBA to take an interest in the assets of the business. The requirements apply to EIDL loans, not advances. The SBA does not prohibit lenders with a superior lien position to the UCC-1 lien to continue advancing additional funds under existing borrowing arrangements. The guide also provides links to SBA EIDL resources and SBA contact information for borrowers and lenders seeking consent for subordination. Further, the SBA's FAQs on the EIDL program and agricultural lending notes that the agency places the lien on business and trade equipment, not agricultural commodities, crops, livestock, or the proceeds of their sale in the ordinary course of business.

CFPB updates website

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau updated its website to include a new interactive enforcement database to help track information on the bureau's enforcement actions. The site also features petitions for rulemaking and archives content older than two years old.

Fed Payments profiles Romero Rainey

A recent profile of ICBA President and CEO Rebeca Romero Rainey on the Federal Reserve's Fed Payments Improvement site focuses on ICBA advocacy and innovation initiatives. The article notes that ICBA is seeking Paycheck Protection Program forgiveness simplification while it supports community bank digitization through ICBA Bancard's Digital Payments Strategy Guide and other resources .Read the profile.

ICBA launches 2021 Business Continuity Plan

ICBA and the Financial Services Information Sharing and Analysis Center recently launched a guide to help community banks revise their business continuity plans given the COVID-19 environment. The 2021 Business Continuity Plan includes best practices for the annual update, pandemic-related activities, and links to helpful resources. Access the plan.

Economic indicators show mixed results

- Personal income decreased 7 percent in October while consumer spending rose 0.5 percent.
- Sales of new single-family homes declined 3 percent in October but were up 41.5 percent from a year ago.
- Durable-goods orders rose 3 percent in October on increased orders for transportation equipment.
- The University of Michigan's index of consumer sentiment fell 6 percent in November to 76.9 and was down 20.6 percent from the same time a year ago.
- GDP increased at an annual rate of 33.1 percent in the third quarter, according to the Commerce Department's second estimate.

President-elect Joe Biden will reportedly announce more top members of his economic team this week. They are expected to include:

- Princeton labor economist Cecilia Rouse as head of the Council of Economic Advisers (she would be the first Black woman in the position);
- Jared Bernstein and Heather Boushey as members of the CEA;
- Neera Tanden (CEO of the Center for American Progress) as the first South Asian woman to lead the Office of Management and Budget;
- former Obama-era senior economic adviser Adewale Adeyemo as Deputy Treasury Secretary,
- and former Obama senior aide Brian Deese (currently an executive at BlackRock) as Director of the National Economic Council.
- Janet Yellen is expected to be formally introduced as the first woman Treasury Secretary. FROM NEW YORK

- Sunday saw the highest statewide infection rate since May: 4.27% of 157,000 tests conducted. Governor Cuomo conceded that New York is now facing a challenge of general “sustained COVID-19 spread” statewide, the Daily News reports.
- As cases continue to steadily rise in New York, Governor Cuomo said the number of patients in hospitals are becoming the most pressing challenge in battling the coronavirus. The number of people in hospitals each day has tripled this month, state data shows: On Nov. 1, 1,151 patients were hospitalized related to Covid-19. Four weeks later, that number had jumped to 3,372.
- New York City health officials are ramping up COVID-19 testing to prepare for an expected surge in coronavirus cases as New Yorkers return from traveling over the Thanksgiving weekend and the holiday season begins, The Wall Street Journal reports.
- Over the past month, the number of coronavirus cases has increased tenfold in Buffalo and its surrounding suburbs, hospitalizations already have surpassed the levels seen in the spring and the Covid-19 hotline for Erie County is getting ‘annihilated’ with 1,500 calls in one 24-hour period this week. The second wave is here, and it is here with a vengeance, said Erie County Executive Mark Poloncarz. He urged residents to take the surge seriously. Western New York has emerged as the biggest trouble spot of the state’s second coronavirus wave.
- New York City's painfully slow economic recovery has left the Bronx with the highest unemployment rate of any county in the state, and more than 60% of its residents on Medicaid amid a growing resurgence of COVID-19. The NYS Labor Department reported last week that the Bronx's unemployment rate was 17.5% in October (down from 18.6% in September.) The rate in Brooklyn and Queens is just over 13%, while Manhattan and Staten Island have fallen below 11%. The highest rate for a non-city county in the state is Westchester with 7%.

- In a major reversal, New York City Mayor Bill DeBlasio said the nation's largest school system will reopen to in-person learning and increase the number of days a week many children attend class. The city's elementary schools will reopen next Monday, weeks after Mayor Bill de Blasio shut them down due to rising Covid-19 infections in the city—though many students will remain at home because their families have opted for all-remote classes. There is no plan to reopen middle or high schools.
